Excerpt: .attempts, it relieved the situation for the Iron Division further down. But it was not until the early hours of this morning that Rumilly was finally taken by a different method of assault. Royal Scottish Fusiliers and Shropshire Light Infantry worked round on the east side of the village and outflanked it on that side, while other men of the 3rd Division swung through the village from the north-west. Up to last night their division had captured twelve officers and 453 men in the ding-dong fighting of the day, and this morning they have many more. The 3rd Division is now advancing into open country beyond that Rumilly switch-line which was the enemy s last organized system of defence, in touch with the New Zealanders on their right. As I have said, the Bavarians are fighting with fierce spirit, and one of our officers...
